STUDY IN THE UK

Chevening is the UK government's international awards programme aimed at developing future leaders who have the bright ideas to shape a better world.

Funded by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and partner organisations, Chevening offers two types of awards – Chevening Scholarships for master's degrees and Chevening Fellowships for mid-career professionals – the recipients of which are personally selected by British embassies and high commissions throughout the world.

There are many benefits to being selected, including fully-funded tuition or programme fees, living expenses, and return flights to the UK. Other benefits include gaining access to exclusive networking events, workshops, talks, internships, and volunteering opportunities.

Upon completion of an award, Cheveners join a global network of over 50,000 alumni. Chevening Alumni have an excellent record of rising to positions of leadership and bringing fresh ideas and positive change to a wide range of fields including politics, business, arts and media, civil society, and law.

WHAT ELSE DOES CHEVENING OFFER

With our world facing countless challenges, Chevening is looking for the kind of people who have the passion, ideas, and influence to provide the solutions and the leadership we need to create a better future.

The UK Foreign and Commonwealth Office offers this unique scholarship because we believe that education and international networks are vital for developing effective future leaders.

We believe that Chevening will not only open doors, it will also open your mind.

During your year in the UK, you'll be exposed to a range of exclusive events, networking opportunities, and trips across the UK. Previous scholars have visited 10 Downing Street, hiked up Mount Snowdon, exhibited art in London galleries, interned at the BBC, volunteered with the elderly, debated at the Cambridge Union, and sat in the home dressing room at Anfield. All this, whilst studying on an intense master's course.

You will learn about your subject matter, and about the UK, but - most of all - you will learn about yourself.

We hope that this challenging but enriching year studying in the UK will inspire new ideas within you, empowering you to return home and bring your ideas to life.
